A Pakistani officer Captain Shakir Ahmed (Naseeruddin Shah) is assigned to pilot the boat. He finds that the submarine does not have enough oxygen. A Russian Officer Selma Syranovna (Shivani) is assigned to help Shakir manage the navigation system. But the S21 does find out that the submarine is approaching its port and alerts the Indian Navy. The Indian Navy sends its submarine, the Akula II, to intercept the Ghazi and the rest of the story unfolds there. New Age : The movie is based on a true story, and Naseeruddin Shah puts in his best performance to date. While there are a lot of cliches in the movie, there is a lot of depth to it and Shah lets himself go to try out a lot of dialogues to the audience. The cinematography by V. S. Venkatraman is magnificent. The camera work is done in a way which is very different from Shah's usual style, and it is a nice change. The sound design is also pretty well done, with music composed by Hariharan. Is it in the list of top Bollywood movies of this year? For one, this movie is not a thriller, but definitely a suspense movie. For another, the movie has a very interesting plot, great dialogues, and Shah does a very good job. Also, to add to the debate, I was thinking of this film as a spy thriller, but you can't really call it a spy thriller because, it's not about a secret agent who is trying to steal secrets, but a film about an Indian and a Pakistani trying to kill each other by whatever means possible. The makers, the censor board, and the film industry in general, have a huge weight to live up to now. Sivaji Ganesan, the late great Kannada actor and the Kannada movie industry, would have been amazed to see the kind of things that have happened in the Kannada film industry in the last few years, especially with the advent of VFX and CGI. It was when I saw the trailer of the film, that I was most interested in it. The film doesn't show any signs of what might be in the film, but what we see is a fairly major achievement in the Kannada film industry. The film, directed by Sukumar, is produced by Vijay Deverakonda under the S 82157476af
